

Saint John Regional Hospital Foundation to Focus on New Brunswicker's Stories

SAINT JOHN, January 25, 2019 - The Saint John Regional Hospital Foundation loves sharing honest and inspiring stories of patients, doctors and health care staff in the province. To help tell our New Brunswick stories, the Foundation has added a familiar voice to its team. Former radio and television journalist Hance Colburne is the Foundation's new Director of Communications. Recently a part of your mornings on CBC Radio, Hance comes to the Foundation with 20 years of experience in journalism, communications, and education.

"The Saint John Regional Hospital Foundation is about making connections," says Jeff McAloon, President and CEO of the Foundation. "Whether that's between donor and health care need or between New Brunswickers themselves, we bring people together. Hance has been connecting New Brunswickers for years and will help amplify the great work done by our health care professionals, as well as the generosity of the people who support them. We are thrilled to have him."

"The Foundation's enthusiasm and commitment for improving lives are overwhelming," says Colburne. "I am excited to share the successes of patients, doctors, nurses, and staff across the province. I am a story-teller at heart, and I'm anticipating this to be one of the most rewarding chapters of my professional career."

To reach Hance with your story, email him at sjrh.foundation@horizonnb.ca .

To support the Saint John Regional Hospital Foundation, go to thegive.ca.